Must try FOOD

Cocido Madrileño

Cocido Madrileño is Madrid's famous traditional stew, made with chickpeas, beef, pork, chorizo, vegetables, and potatoes. Slow-cooked for rich flavor, it is usually served in three courses: soup, vegetables with chickpeas, and meats. This hearty dish is a symbol of Madrid's culinary heritage and a favorite comfort food.

Bocadillo de Calamares

Bocadillo de Calamares is one of Madrid's most beloved street foods. This simple yet delicious sandwich features crispy fried squid rings served in a fresh, crusty baguette. Often enjoyed with a squeeze of lemon or a light sauce, it is a local favorite, especially around Plaza Mayor, offering an authentic taste of Madrid.

Patatas Bravas

Patatas Bravas is one of Madrid's most popular tapas dishes. It features crispy fried potato cubes served with a spicy tomato-based brava sauce, often topped with creamy aioli. Loved by locals and visitors alike, this flavorful appetizer is commonly enjoyed with drinks and is a staple in Madrid's vibrant tapas culture.
